eGovPH document requirements (Requisito)

Compiled on October 19, 2026 for the documents in the Requisito sample data. I could not open the eGovPH app itself, so each entry notes whether eGovPH covers the document and lists the requirements published by the issuing agency or by guide articles. Most references are guide articles, not agency pages. Check each requirement against the agency's own site before using it as verified data.

NBI clearance

eGovPH: Covered. The app lets you set an NBI clearance appointment.
Requirements:

- Two valid government-issued IDs, original and photocopy.
- Confirmed online appointment and proof of payment. Walk-ins are generally not accepted.
- Company IDs and barangay clearance are not accepted as IDs.
- Valid for one year from the date of issue. Other guides say six months to one year.
- A prior barangay clearance is not required.

PSA birth certificate

eGovPH: Covered. Civil registry documents can be requested from the Government Services tab.
Requirements:

- Request through eGovPH, PSA Serbilis or PSAHelpline.ph.
- For a minor, only authorized persons can request it, such as parents, guardians or a court-appointed representative.
- Walk-in requests need a valid National ID in card, paper or digital form.

PSA marriage certificate eGovPH: Covered. It is among the civil registry documents you can request in the app.

Requirements:

- Request through eGovPH, PSA Serbilis or PSAHelpline.ph.
- I did not find a separate list of requirements for this document.

Passport

eGovPH: Not covered, except passport renewal for OFWs. Apply through the DFA.
Requirements:

- Completed application form.
- Original and photocopy of a PSA-authenticated birth certificate. A Local Civil Registrar copy is required if the PSA copy is unclear.
- A valid ID.
- Confirmed online appointment.
- Married women also need an original PSA-authenticated marriage certificate.

Barangay clearance

eGovPH: Not a standard service. It is issued by your barangay and can be requested online only if your LGU is linked to eGovPH.
Requirements:

- A valid government-issued ID.
- Proof of residency in the barangay.
- A cedula (Community Tax Certificate) for the current year.
- Typically valid for six months.
- Only the barangay where you currently live can issue it.

TIN

eGovPH: Not covered. Apply through the BIR's ORUS portal.
Requirements:

- BIR Form 1902 for employees earning compensation income.
- Photocopy of the PSA birth certificate and a government ID such as a passport or postal ID.
- Marriage certificate for female employees, if applicable.
- For first-time employees, the employer registers the TIN through ORUS.
- To apply yourself, create an account at orus.bir.gov.ph.

SSS number

eGovPH: Covered. SSS is one of the agencies listed in the app.
Requirements:

- Apply through the SSS website or an SSS branch E-Center, and create a My.SSS account.
- The system generates an SS Number Slip and a Transaction Number Slip.
- To make the number permanent, upload a PSA birth certificate, plus a marriage contract if married or a baptismal certificate if you have children.
- No fee for the online application.

PhilHealth number eGovPH: Covered. PhilHealth is one of the agencies listed in the app.

Requirements:

- A completed PhilHealth Member Registration Form (PMRF).
- A photocopy of one valid ID.
- First-time registrants also need a birth certificate or other proof of birth.
- For online registration, a valid email address, which can be used only once.
- The ID rules differ by source. One guide says one primary ID or two secondary IDs and two 1x1 photos, which I could not confirm from PhilHealth.

Reference: philhealth.gov.ph (PMRF), eezi.com, philippinego.com.

School ID and Postal ID

Requirements:

- Not researched yet. A school ID is issued by your school and a postal ID by PHLPost, so neither is an eGovPH service.

Reference: None yet.

Notes for the Requisito data

- The sample data has NBI clearance depending on barangay clearance. The source above says NBI does not require it.
- The sample data gives NBI clearance a 180-day limit. Sources give six months to one year.
- Do not set last_verified_at from these guide articles. Use it only after someone checks the agency's own page.
